

Hot Off the Press

Friday, April 24, 2009

CPISC Forum 2009, June 12, Vancouver

- The need for skills in a changing print environment - Space is limited, so please register early for this free industry event. Register now.

What are your press training gaps?

As part of the CPISC Training Needs Assessment project, interviews are underway to assess the print industry's needs for press-related training.

Through the project, CPISC will work with industry to assess what training needs exist in each process area, starting with press production.

Effective training options that can be introduced to better reflect the needs of industry will also be identified.

To help develop a clear picture of currently available training and the training gaps or needs that exist, a random sample of industry representatives has been chosen to participate in the interviews.

Industry input will be vital in helping CPISC to develop an in-depth analysis of industry training needs, and in time the information should help industry - including educators, suppliers and print companies - develop better and more effective training options.

If you have been contacted to participate in the interviews, please complete the survey by calling us at 1888-950-8002. The initial survey period closes at the end of April.

For more information about the Training Needs Assessment or to participate in future industry validation of the project, please visit the CPISC website at www.cpisc-csic.ca

Canada